TAYLOR & TAYLOR TO APPEAL.

They Say Captain O'Bannon Discriminated Against Them—He Says Not.

Messrs. Taylor & Taylor, the printers, who were left out in the award of contracts for State printing, and who at the time signified their purpose of protesting against what they claimed was unjust discrimination, have employed a lawyer to take their case, and appeal from the award. They contend that they were the best bidders for a considerable lot of the work, and that, notwithstanding this, their claim for the jobs were overlooked.

Mr. Jack Taylor, of the firm, when seen by a reporter yesterday, said: "We are going to carry our case to the Legislature. If we don't get satisfaction from the board we'll take it to the Legislature."

It is a wrongful and unwarranted discrimination against us," he continued, "and we have been so treated. We have everything to do with the way of facilities, and there is no reason why we should not get the work if our bid is the lowest. The State is being done out of thousands of dollars each year just in that way."

Captain O'Bannon, Superintendent of Public Printing, who awarded the contracts denies that there was any unjust discrimination against Messrs. Taylor & Taylor. He says that they were rejected because, in his opinion, the firm was not sufficiently well equipped to do the work.

A Negro With Thirty-Eight Shoes.

A sack containing nineteen pairs of new "Nubuck Axe" shoes was delivered yesterday morning to Watchman Thomas, on the Cheapside and Ohio railway. In making his rounds the watchman saw a negro youth peering out of an empty box-car. He told the youngster to consider himself under arrest, but the negro ran away in a most fitful manner under consideration, and, jumping from the car, scampered away. In his flight he dropped the shoes, which are at the First Police-Station now awaiting their owner.

THE ROOF IN WINTER.

JEFFERSON'S GARDENS TO BE ENCLOSED WITH GLASS.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS TO BE MADE.

A Sun Parlor, a Ball Room, a Bike Room, and a Children's Play-ground to Be Added—Hops To Be Given Each Week.

The Jefferson Hotel, which is now being run exclusively on the European plan, will be thrown open on October 1st for the reception of guests on the American plan. Manager Fry is making elaborate preparations for the coming winter, and contemplates many improvements in the magnificent hotel. He will have a fine orchestra for the amusement of his guests, and several times each week, after the season opens, will have hops. For a time the dining-room will be used for the dancers, but just as soon as possible the roof garden will be enclosed with glass and converted into sun parlors and ball-room. A large children's play-room will also be constructed on the roof, as well as a bicycle department, where wheel enthusiasts may take exercise on their bikes when the streets are muddy.

DELIGHTFUL PLACE 'TWILL BE.

These improvements, coupled with the removal of the boilers from beneath the office, will render the Jefferson a much more delightful place than it has been before, and Mr. Fry says he expects to have the house full during the entire winter.

The glass around the roof gardens will not detract from the general appearance of the house, and being easily removed, it will not interfere with summer attractions. It will, however, make the roofs most delightful places of resort during the cold, bleak days of winter, and will also give the house several much-needed apartments.

THE GRAND CAMP'S MEETING.

Matters Discussed by the General Committee of Arrangements.

The General Committee of Arrangements for the meeting of the Grand Camp, Confederate Veterans, next month held a meeting at the Mechanics' Institute last evening at 6 o'clock and perfected some of their plans for the occasion. The committee embraces delegations from Lee and Pickett camps and the Association of the Army of Northern Virginia.

There were present General Thomas A. Erander, chairman; Colonel W. P. Smith and Mr. John E. Laughton, representing Lee Camp; Messrs. W. T. Woody, Sidney R. Gates, and J. E. Sullivan, representing Pickett Camp, and Judge George L. Christian, president of the Thomas Elliott, representing the Army of Northern Virginia, as well as the following Advisory Committee: Messrs. J. Taylor Elyson, E. A. Catlin, and John B. Cary. Hon. J. Taylor Elyson, who was present, was made secretary.

After an informal discussion, it was decided, on motion of Colonel Cary, that a banquet should be tendered the Grand Camp on the night of Thursday, October 23rd. General Erander called attention to the necessity of raising funds with which to defray the expenses of this entertainment, and Messrs. James N. Boyd, E. A. Catlin, and George L. Christian were appointed a committee to attend to this essential detail.

On motion of Judge Christian, a committee consisting of Messrs. Sidney Gates, D. A. Brown, and W. P. Smith, was appointed to make arrangements for the banquet and to report the probable cost thereof to the first-named committee. General Erander called attention to the necessity of securing funds with which to defray the expenses of this entertainment, and Messrs. James N. Boyd, E. A. Catlin, and George L. Christian were appointed a committee to attend to this essential detail.

At the instance Captain Elyson said that on behalf of Colonel Cuzzons he desired to extend an invitation to the delegates to the reunion and the sponsors to spend a day at Glen Allen as his guests. This invitation the committee thought well of, but took no definite action thereon.

The resolution which was referred to the Executive Committee, asking for the formation of some committee to handle the arrangements for the meeting of the Grand Camp, was referred to the General Committee of Arrangements, and the committee voted to accept the resolution.

The question of properly entertaining the sponsors—about 150 in number—was here taken up and freely discussed, and a committee was formed to consider the matter. Captain Elyson, who stated that the ladies of the Confederate-Memorial and Literary Society were preparing to give the visiting ladies an entertainment at the Museum.

This concluded the business of the session, and the members of the committee adjourned to meet upon call of the chairman.
